What to Expect from The Poldark Show

---

Imagine you're walking towards the venue with your friends. You're all chatting away excited to see Poldark the hypnotist, looking forward to being amazed and wondering who from your group will volunteer. It's a show you've been looking forward to; a show you're intrigued about and a show where you know you're going to wonder "how does he do that". You're about to experience something that you have never experienced before.

As you're waiting in line, your best friend who has been talking about tonight for weeks, announces that she's going to volunteer, she has always been curious about hypnosis. There's heightened excitement and overheard words from other audience members... "I'm absolutely getting up on stage", "I've never been hypnotised before, I'd love to experience it", "we'll watch you from our seats and video you" and "did you watch the video of him, if it's anything like that, we're going to have an amazing time".

As you sit back and relax into your seat, the music starts, the intensity increases and the anticipation feels electric. The curtains open and Poldark, International Cabaret and Master Stage Hypnotist appears and welcomes the audience into his hypnotic world. As the music fades, he speaks to everyone and seizes your attention. Asking for volunteers to join him, your best friend takes a seat on the stage. Twenty or so volunteers are ready to be a part of something special.

Over the next 2 hours, Poldark expertly hypnotises his volunteers into a trance making them the stars of the show, as they entertain you, members of the audience. There are many moments of laughter; your best friend frantically searches for an imaginary puppy that has escaped from her arms convinced it's hiding under chairs or behind curtains; she also believes she has won £5million on the lottery and runs over to celebrate with you telling you she's going to spend it on shoes and a yacht; and strangers get drunk on water at the imaginary bar.

Not only lots of comedy, there was so much more which is unexplainable; there's genuine moments of amazement and wonder, which you are struggling to understand and that last act, "wow, how does he do that".

It's a unique unforgettable performance; it's mesmerising, it's spellbinding, it's a show that will literally blow your mind!

CHECK OUT THE REVIEWS

Customer satisfaction is the most important part of the whole production.

At The Poldark Show we are proud to have many positive reviews from clients, customers and audience members alike.

Take a quick look at just a few we've put together.

"Completely mind blowing. Poldark is outstanding. I have seen hypnotist shows before but Poldark is the next level. I will definitely be travelling to watch this absolute showman again. The best show Belfast has had in years. A 5 Star show!"

JOHN-MARK, BELFAST

"I was standing right there in front of him and I still can't figure out how he managed to get him to balance on the chairs. There were no mirrors or props. How is it done????"

ROB, RUGBY

"Wow wow wow! What can I say! I am still speechless! Poldark show is absolutely brilliant, we had such a great time. A must see show"

NATALIE, RUGBY

The beautiful venue choice and staging perfectly sets the scene for the style of The Poldark Show—Stage Hypnotist. The audience enters a church hall to find a velvet draped stage, and the sense of classy grandeur is a constant throughout the show.

Hypnotist Poldark is clearly a master of the craft, balancing respect for his participants with showmanship and entertainment for the offstage members of the audience.

Poldark's brand of hypnosis is notable at this Fringe for its calming, meditative qualities in a field that currently seems to favour sharp, loud noises as a methodology. The Poldark version is more pleasant on the audience ear, even providing a relaxing environment for those who did not put themselves forward to be hypnotised. No one method of hypnotism will work on everyone, but at the reviewed show Poldark had a very respectable success rate, that gave him ample supply of hypnotised individuals for his demonstrations.

There is a gently comedic element to The Poldark Show, in a respectful and family friendly way. The hypnotised participants are not asked to do anything embarrassing. His final hypnotic demonstration is less for comedic effect and more just for the wow factor.

Even those who have seen a wide variety of other hypnotism shows are unlikely to have seen anything even remotely close to this. Poldark has a kind stage presence, and at the reviewed show some who did not manage to get hypnotised or were awoken from that state during the performance even played along just to try to help him out. However, ever the professional, Poldark spotted them quickly and found opportune moments to quickly ensure that they were okay and invite them to return to the rest of the audience.

The hypnotism takes the majority of the show's run time, but Poldark does still take a moment to get the whole audience involved in a warm up imaginative exercise. It may start similar to an exercise often used in this kind of show, but once again Poldark demonstrates his unusual take on stage hypnotism—it's actually a completely different exercise to what the audience probably anticipates.

The Poldark Show is without a doubt the place to be this Fringe for a pleasant hypnotic experience, whether as an onstage participant or a curious onlooker. Unfortunately the reviewed show was the final one of this Fringe, but Poldark will be heading out on tour, and will hopefully return to Edinburgh someday. Fans of being hypnotised or watching hypnotism are advised to look him up.
